VALUE ADDED COACHING - VAC®, is a set of executive courses designed, developed and offered by ADDVALUE, in an operational form of the philosophy about understanding self, managing teams and leading organizations.

Organizations desiring to be successful have the strategic priority of developing future leaders at early stages, from within. The emerging leaders have to develop deeper understanding about: self-behavior, problem solving, decision making during different situations.

We appreciate your vision for self and seeing yourself in a key leadership position. We also understand the challenges for leaders and the skill requirement for navigating the team to the desired goals.

This ELDP program is a fast paced, highly interactive, focused, general management learning outbound program, which helps the participants have a deeper understanding of:

- Self Understanding – explore and develop insights about self as a future leader
- Life Goal Design – visualize ambitions
- Setting Business Goals – mapping the business requirements
- Problem Formulation – enhance problem understanding
- Business Modeling – preparing business strategy
- Speed of Thought – understand impact of decision making speed
- Analyzing Financial Performance – organization performance
- Understanding Market Opportunities – define the market and identify the gaps
- Strategy Formulation and Execution – build roadmap for execution
- Delivering Customer Value – create value added products and services
- Managing Speed to Market - Operational Excellence for Just In Time
- Supply Chain Management – designing an effective value chain
- Total Human Management – managing people and relationship building
- Management Information Systems – organization analysis through data management
- Growth and Profitability – understanding real money

This ELDP program is conducted through Value Added Coaching – VAC®, which is a unique integration and synchronization of Business Coaching and Life Coaching.

The program ends with an intensive integrated group exercise, which will enable participants consolidate their learning's from various modules and help them have a holistic view of the organizations.
